

[Ebook free] Building Tall: My Life and the Invention of Construction Management

Building Tall: My Life and the Invention of Construction Management

John L Tishman, Tom Shachtman
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

Download

Read Online

#1271569 in eBooks 2011-09-29 2011-09-29 File Name: B0100RAYFS | File size: 32.Mb

John L Tishman, Tom Shachtman : Building Tall: My Life and the Invention of Construction Management before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Building Tall: My Life and the Invention of Construction Management:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Average at best By Robert Price It's almost as if this book was written in one sitting without any sort of editing. A broad view of Tishman through average writing. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Extremely interesting book. By Nancy H. Mr. Tishman is a very good story teller. He covers the challenges of building in New York City from business and engineering standpoints. This book is a great wealth of insider information and history. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Four StarsBy CustomerAmazing read

"John Tishman is a true pioneer in the Construction Management industry. Through his CM leadership, some of America's most well-known buildings have been brought to successful completion."---Bruce D'Agostino, president and chief executive, Construction Management Association of America"Building Tall will provide readers with insights into John Tishman's career as a visionary engineer, landmark builder, and great businessman. Responsible for some of the construction world's most magnificent projects, John is one of the preeminent alumni in the history of Michigan Engineering. His perspectives have helped me throughout my time as dean, and his impact will influence generations of Construction Management professionals and students."---David C. Munson, Jr., Robert J. Vlasic Dean of Engineering, University of Michigan In this memoir, University of Michigan graduate John L. Tishman recounts the experiences and rationale that led him to create the entirely new profession now recognized and practiced as Construction Management. It evolved from his work as the construction lead of the "owner/builder" firm Tishman Realty and Construction, and his personal role as hands-on Construction Manager in the building of an astonishing array of what were at the time the world's tallest and most complex projects. These includeThe world's first three 100-story towers---the original "twin towers" of the World Trade Center in Manhattan and the Hancock Tower in Chicago.The Epcot Center at Disney World. The Renaissance Center in Detroit. New York's Madison Square Garden.Tishman interweaves the stories behind the construction of these and many other important buildings and projects with personal reminiscences of his dealings with Henry Ford, Jr., Disney's Michael Eisner, casino magnate Steve Wynn, and many others into a practical history of the field of Construction Management, which he pioneered.This book will be of interest not only to a general public interested in the stories and personalities behind many of the most iconic construction projects of the post-World War II period in the United States but to students of engineering and architecture and members of the new field of Construction Management.

About the AuthorJohn L. Tishman serves as Chairman Emeritus of Tishman Realty and Construction. His strategic management plan was based on broad diversification within the real estate and construction markets, joint-venture partnerships, and use and development of advanced technology. Mr. Tishman was personally in charge of such landmark projects as the World Trade Center in New York, the renovation of Carnegie Hall, the John Hancock Center in Chicago, the Century Club Theme Center in Los Angeles, and the Walt Disney Company's Epcot Center in Orlando. He is a Trustee of Carnegie Hall. He has been a Trustee of New School University since 1981 and serves on the boards of Carnegie Hall and the Central Park Conservancy. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan College of Engineering. Tom Shachtman has written more than thirty books and many television documentaries. His 1999 book, Absolute Zero and the Conquest of Cold, was the basis for a two-hour documentary special for BBC and PBS, broadcast in 2008. It and Tom's script won an American Institute of Physics Science Communication Award for 2009. Shachtman, a long-term member of the Writers Guild of America, has written scripts for documentaries broadcast by ABC, CBS, NBC, PBS, syndicators, and local stations. A former executive at the National Geographic Society, he has been a consultant to the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation and to the New York Zoological Society.