Alison Ravetz, Professor Alison Ravetz, R. Turkington : The Place of Home: English domestic environments, 1914-2000 (Planning, History and Environment Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Place of Home: English domestic environments, 1914-2000 (Planning, History and Environment Series):

A comprehensive and in-depth history of the 20th century English home, how it has been created, and how it works for people. It focuses on the various influences bearing on the development of domestic space since 1914 and covers both design and housing policy. Current debates from participation to co-operative housing are examined and several themes not previously brought together are linked, e.g. urban development/house design; technology at home/women and home; social meaning of home.

"The Place of Home will prove an invaluable foundational text and reference tool, which deservedly should continue to have prominence in published scholarship on this subject...engaging and interesting as well as informative...a great deal of relevant evidence within a lively,nbsp;cogent and concise narrative is a noteworthy strength of the book overall." ndash; Planning Perspectives
